

TRAIN WITH TEAM USA - 22 PRECISION RIFLE COMPETITION CLASS

Date: April 15th, 2023, 9am-5pm

Location: Beloit Rifle Club, 851 E Philhower Rd, Beloit, WI 53511

Cost: $160

Class Level: Intermediate

What You'll Learn:

- Fundamentals of Shooting
- Stage Planning
- Building Positions
- Target Acquisition
- Long Range DOPE Gathering
- Wind Calls and DOPE Chart Building
- Developing a Winning Mindset

How to Register:

- Sign up on Practiscore!
<https://practiscore.com/training-with-team-usa/register>

Limited Spots Available – No refunds but you may sell your spot to another person if you can no longer attend.

What to Bring:

- Notebook and writing utensil
- Rifle, scope, level, bipod, support bag(s), rangefinder, ballistic solver, ammo (at least 200 rounds)

What Level of Experience Should Participants Have?

- You should have experience shooting PRS style matches
- Have a 50yd zero
- Have a ballistic solver profile that is set up for your rifle system

Meet the instructors! All 4 instructors are members of Team USA and will be heading to Italy this fall to compete in the IPRF World Championships. All 4 are top-level shooters, and each are currently ranked within the top 10 of all rimfire shooters in the nation, based on the last 2 years of major match finishes.

Jason Anderson was born with a rifle in his hands - sort of. His dad bought him a Red Ryder BB gun the day he was born and he's been shooting in one form or another since he could pull a trigger. In 2015, Jason was introduced to competitive shooting with 3-Gun, and in 2019 he shot his first precision rimfire match and was hooked. Having an engineering brain, Jason is fascinated with everything from the mechanics and fundamentals of precision shooting to understanding environmental impacts on DOPE – and it shows. Jason has won some very competitive matches, and podiumed on many other occasions. In 2022, Jason started Firefly Precision as an outlet for new designs and ideas to help improve the shooters' ability to hit targets.

Tyler Orth has a passion for competition. Coming from competitive target archery, he started shooting PRS style matches in 2021, with the primary intention to become a more proficient hunter and marksman. With his competitive nature and inquisitive mind, Tyler started down the path of understanding the intricacies of his craft. He is a firm believer that if a person practices with intent and having a deep understanding of their kit, they will have a significant advantage over the field. With early success, Tyler became the region's rookie of the year, with consistent podiums at local and regional matches. Through trial and error, he has developed a system that has resulted in several wins and consistent podiums at both local and national levels, and in both rimfire and centerfire matches. Tyler is excited to share his knowledge, and passionate about promoting others' success in the sport we all love so much.

Justin Carbone is a decorated competitor with many years of shooting under his belt. Most recently, Justin won the 2023 PRS Rimfire National Finale match. With a background in engineering at Federal Ammunition, Justin has a couple decades worth of experience in the industry. He enjoys the constant pursuit of self-improvement, and is always willing to share his secrets. He says that by giving his knowledge away, it makes the whole community better, therefore driving himself to work towards the next level. Justin is co-owner of Midwest Precision Shooting, with a focus on coaching, process improvement, and innovation within the industry.

Ruth Soucie is a natural at competitive shooting. She started in 2019 and picked it up very quickly. Ruth is the top lady shooter in the rimfire game, but also gives the guys a run for their money. Ruth has won a handful of matches, including an NRL22X match in 2021. Not only is she a great shooter, but she wears many other hats. Ruth has a positive attitude, is sharp as a tack, and is a huge advocate for the sport - welcoming new shooters, especially underrepresented groups like ladies and youth. Ruth is the host of the NRL22 podcast, and is on their board of advisors. She is co-owner of Midwest Precision Shooting, and is one of the most successful rimfire match directors in the country.